Student Name: _____

The OnAccess computer registration system will, most likely, not allow you to register for English 1010 because you are still fulfilling prerequisite requirements. However, you may register for English 1010 if you have fulfilled the following two English 1010 prerequisites: 1) the writing requirement which is filled by passing Engh 0990 and 2) the textbook reading requirement which is filled by taking RDG 1170 OR receiving a score of 77 or better on the DRP (reading) test. Your Engh 0990 instructor will verify that you are passing your writing class, and your RDG 1170 instructor will verify that you are passing your reading class. An General Academics advisor will look up your DRP score if you are not registered for RDG 1170. If you have not met the DRP (reading) requirement, you will need to meet it before you can register for English 1010 even if you are passing English 0990.
